Ryan- Please find attached the updated charts of 1) agency obligations contained in consent decrees, settlement agreements, and court orders; and 2) current cases where the agency is discussing or has the potential to discuss a negotiated resolution of the matter with the litigants. Please note that this second chart includes a range of cases from ones where discussions are very active (the Pebble Mine litigation would have been included, for example) to ones where the litigation has been paused to allow for discussions but those discussions are not particularly active to ones where there has been an initial conversation to understand the litigant's/litigants' concerns but no discussions beyond that call. In other words, the list does not represent a list of cases where we are in active negotiations and where we have a goal of reaching a negotiated resolution. If you or others have questions about the list or specific deadlines or cases, please do not hesitate to ask.

Thanks, Kevin
